

Response to Comments, Second Public Comment Period

Exemption for Titanium Dioxide in Enzyme-Based Cleaning Products

September 12, 2019

Green Seal has issued new standards that now include a conditional exemption for titanium dioxide for enzyme-based cleaning products. For background on this standard revision, see the documents below.

Standard Development Documents:

- Notice of Issuance - New Standard Editions, September 2019

Second Public Comment Period:

- Second Proposal for Public Comment, August 2019

First Public Comment Period:

- Response to Comments from First Proposal, August 2019
- First Proposal for Public Comment, April 2019

Summary of Stakeholder Inputs:

In August 2019, Green Seal published a second proposal on this issue. Green Seal held several constructive discussions about this proposal. We did not encounter any opposition from stakeholders in industry, from product users, or from public interest groups.

We are greatly appreciative of those who volunteered their time and expertise during these discussions.

Written Comments Submitted by Stakeholders:

During the second public comment period, we did not receive any written comments.

Contact:

For Technical Inquiries:

Brie Welzer, Program Manager, Green Seal

BWelzer@greenseal.org